Local piano students perform at OMTA state auditions

Fifteen students from the Danielle Shaw Piano Studio in Cordell recently demonstrated exceptional musical skill at the Oklahoma Music Teachers Association State Achievement Auditions. The event was May 15-16 at the University of Oklahoma's Catlett Music Center in Norman. Several students competed in the rigorous Merit category. To earn Merit recognition, students must perform two memorized pieces before judges at both the district and state levels while also scoring 80% or higher on comprehensive written theory and aural listening exams. The OMTA State Achievement Auditions draw talented young pianists from across Oklahoma, giving students the opportunity to perform before professional adjudicators and receive feedback on their technical proficiency and artistic expression.
